Thought for the Week from S.A.D.D.: While you should be aware of teen driving statistics, there's something you can do to help change them. Pay attention in Drivers' Ed. Be safe on the road. Encourage your friends to be safe. Refrain from doing extremely dangerous things like drinking and driving, texting and driving, partaking in distracted driving, or driving when you're tired. Be a defensive driver. Be a smart driver. Be a responsible driver who follows the rules and doesn't get distracted.
