Thought for the Week from S.A.D.D. - There is one day that is far and away more dangerous than the rest: Memorial Day. According to the NHTSA, over the course of a typical three-day Memorial Day weekend, more than 400 people will die in car crashes---or about 130 fatalities per day. The culprit is alcohol-related: More than 40 percent of those fatalities are directly the result of drunk driving.
